

A PTARMIGAN IN A BIRCH TREE

BY AMBER HENRY

PERSONAL PROFILE

The Christmas season in the north can be an adventure! From dazzling lights to strange creatures and all kinds of things that go, this snowy landscape delivers. This fun parody of the 12 days of Christmas will warm the hearts of long time locals and new friends alike.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Amber Henry has lived in Yellowknife since 2008. She was inspired to write A Ptarmigan in a Birch Tree after her daughter received four different parody's of the 12 Days of Christmas with a Canadian theme. Amber wondered what a Northern Parody would sound like, after the line "A Ptarmigan in a Birch Tree" played over and over in her head for a few weeks, she decided to work on the rest of the song and publish the results.

12 Days of Christmas

in Canada's North

a Ptarmigan in a Birch Tree

written by: Amber Henry illustrated by: Heather Duinker

AUTHOR - AMBER HENRY

Email - shopbabysweets@gmail.com

Website - www.amberhenrywrites.com

Genre - Juvenile Fiction - Holiday

Paperback - ISBN: 978-1-77302-264-2

Hardcover - ISBN: 978-1-77302-265-9

